

A B S T R A C T

The transmitting side encodes a digital signal to be transmitted by using a code not containing any DC component, and transmits the digital signal without using any carrier. The receiving side performs decoding
5 corresponding to encoding for the received signal, and restores the original digital signal.